Hamilton Strikes Back

An affidavit from W. C. Hamilton, a fruitfully inspector, is published accusing Prof. Severin, of the College of Hawaii, of drinking seven cups of whisky while accompanying the affiant in the inspection of the banana fields of Lee Kin, of the Mow Ho Wai Co.

Prof. Severin had charged Hamilton to H. A. Weinland, the California entomologist, with being crooked in banana inspection, as having passed the Chinaman's bananas after the Chinaman had furnished him with whisky. Hamilton strikes back in the affidavit mentioned.

SPANISH CUSTOM CAUSES TANGLE

A woman in Spain does not take her husband's name until after he is dead. This is a little like the Chinese custom, a married woman of that country being known always as Ah Shee, no matter what was her maiden name. In Korea, which has no women's rights, the married woman has no name.

All of the above is apropos to a contested divorce suit that was on trial in Judge Whitney's court this morning. The title of the suit is "Carmela Rimeres versus Emilio Rimeres." Yet the fact is that the name of the contesting parties is not Rimeres at all but Aranda.

It took the Spanish interpreter to explain to the judge and the attorneys how the error came to be made. In Spain, he said, where the parties were married, the woman keeps her maiden name until after the death of her husband, when she assumes his. The maiden name of the libellant was Carmela Rimeres. She married Emilio Aranda, but when she brought suit for divorce she followed the Spanish custom and gave her own name. The attorney naturally thought that Rimeres must be the husband's name and labeled him accordingly in the libel.

Carmela accuses her husband of extreme cruelty. He, through his attorney, Wade Warren Thayer has filed a cross bill in which he charges her with adultery. J. Lightfoot is representing the wife and the session this morning was rather lively.

Court Items.

The assumpsit suit of H. Hackfeld & Company against the Miller Salvage Company for $678.86 has been discontinued in the circuit court.

The $200 bond of Ura, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of having assaulted Zengo Miyamoto with a knife, was ordered forfeited this morning, the defendant not being present when the case was called in Judge Robinson's court.

In the matter of Lawrence H. Des versus Elizabeth Foster, which was decided by Judge Whitney last week in favor of the defendant, an exception to the decision has been filed by the attorney for the plaintiff.

W. A. Fernandez, proprietor of a hat store, has filed in the federal court a petition in bankruptcy. He says he owes $832.55, all on unsecured accounts and is worth $567.30.

HIP BORKEN IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Kierstein, grandmother of Mrs. Carl Klemme, was knocked down by auto No. 606 last night and sustained a broken hip. The car was driven by Chauffeur Gonsalves.

The accident occurred about 9:30 on Hotel street near Fort street. Mrs. Kierstein and Joseph E. Rogers had come out of the eating-house in the alley leading to the Bijou theater and were in the act of crossing the street to board a Waiiale-bound car when both were knocked down by the automobile mentioned.

Rogers was bruised and Mrs. Kierstein complained of her leg hurting and her great deal. She was taken to her residence.

This morning Dr. Straub was called in and after an examination declared that Mrs. Kierstein was suffering from a broken hip and ordered her removed to Queen's Hospital.

The car is a Locomobile touring car registered in the name of E. L. Gay, now a member of the mounted patrol.

Chauffeur Gonsalves disclaims any carelessness in the matter and states that both Rogers and Mrs. Kierstein ran in front of his car and were knocked down before he could stop the machine.

At The Theaters

MAY EDPH THE TAYLOR.

The clever little soubrette who was deluged with flowers at the Bijou last night.

Bijou Vaudeville Acts Packed the YODELING WINS BIG APPLAUSE.

The Juvenile Bostonians who put

With every seat taken and a string of people extending along the aisle of Irish piece, last night at the Liberty theater as their first change have got Monday night audience in the history of the theater. If the weather would be a little more favorable it's safe to say all records in point of attendances would be smashed.

The first-class show put on by the management was the cause of the influx and at the end of the performance not one in the large audience had anything but praise for the entertainment provided, which consisted of three headline vaudeville acts and four interesting pictures.

Dainty little May Taylor began her return engagement under very favorable auspices and the armful of flowers she received were genuine evidence of the esteem with which this little soubrette is held in the community. May was in very good voice and sang four new songs with a new costume for each. Her harem costume created much favorable comment. All of her songs are of the popular variety and have a swing to them that will cause them to be whistled around town today. In her song, "Take Me Back to Honolulu," she was joined by the audience.

Mr. Lord's trained dogs, the much heralded act, proved that the press notices were not exaggerated, for a clever bunch of canines never stepped on a stage. Under the direction of Mr. Lord they performed all sorts of tricks and acrobatic stunts and went through their act without a hitch. The pantomime, "The Burglar's Fate," was a big success and it had the large audience laughing all through the act. The act starts with a dog dressed as a bear brummel calling to take his girl out for a stroll, and while they are out a burglar enters the house through a window and after a few minutes is seen coming out with a sack on his back. The head of the house being awakened turns in the alarm and a policeman appears on the scene. After sizing up the situation a la Sherlock Holmes he gives chase and the burglar is captured and brought to justice. The act all through is replete with comical situations. What makes the act all the more wonderful is the fact that the dogs perform without the aid of their trainer, they being alone on the stage.

The Yokohama troupe went big again with their feet balancing and human juggling feats. The youngsters in acrobatic stunts were all to the velvet in the words of the poet. The carefully selected pictures were a show in themselves. The Bijou management is to be congratulated upon the class of show it is putting on and as long as the standard is kept up crowded houses will be the rule rather than the exception.

At The Empire.

May Nannery and company appeared in a comedy sketch last night at the Empire and had the whole audience laughing at the comical situation. Knots and Lawrence in their singing act scored a big hit. The pictures on the whole were very good.

and Lois Mason and Thom Hellen was a well deserved encore. A vocal quartet is promised for one of the later pieces.

The "Wild Irish Rose" song also won laurels for Miss Hellen, her interpretation of the piece being very good. She has a fine voice and knows how to use it. The Mississippi Dip is a rag that will find favor round town and given with the chorus effect it had to be sung three times last night before the audience would call it square.

If you want to have some fun on "The First Dark Night Next Week" you should see Little Flo Myling and Doris Canfield about it. They made a good hit with the song last night. Little Flo, rejoicing under the name of Tootsie for the present occasion, is becoming very popular.

Taking it all through the show is much better than the opening. The girls have got over their newness and have settled down to better teach work than they were showing before. The songs are nearly all new to Honolulu and each one seems to have been chosen very carefully. The chore work is good and the show is well worth seeing.

BERGER'S BENEFIT

What the audience at the Opera House last night lacked in numbers, it made up in enthusiasm, for every number of the Berger benefit concert was vociferously applauded.

Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson was encored for her singing of Harley's "Gay Butterfly," and Mrs. Charles L. Hall also scored an artistic victory in the soprano solo of the Muzette waltz from Puccini's "La Boheme."

Kaul's quartet earned five encores and the mixed sextet creditably handled the famous sextet from Lucia, doing better work, however, in Schubert's Serenade.

Those who participated in the program were Mrs. A. B. Ingalls, Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson, Mrs. Howard Hitchcock, Mrs. R. D. Mead, Mrs. Charles L. Hall, Miss Alice Hopper, Mr. Ingalls, B. L. Marx, the Kamehameha Glee Club, Kaul's quartet and the Hawaiian Band organization.

BURRELL CASE.

The suit against the Burrell Construction Company, the Connecticut firm that built Fort Shafter, has been dismissed by agreement. A stipulation was filed in the federal court this morning by which it is agreed that the receivers for the various complainants will accept $1 each and twenty-five per cent of their claims and the case shall be discontinued.

In this suit, which was filed in 1908, the Bank of Hawaii sued for $17,934.10, the Honolulu Iron Works for $2325.73, Lewers & Cooke for $26,875.82, Catton, Neill & Company for $127.82, the von Hamm-Young Company for $470.64, E. O. Hall & Son for $634.53, Charles Lucas for $2000.64 and A. B. Johanson for $85.43. All the amounts were for materials furnished the defendant company by the several respondents.
